

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for computer 100 input control by multiple transceivers 110 and 115 worn on a user's fingers. In particular, computer input control signals, such as those for controlling a cursor on a display 130, are generated based on changes in the position of at least two transceivers 110 and 115 worn on a user's fingers.

S:\DOCS\UGR\UGR-1233.DOC
120803